Dear Parents/Carers,

At Rosehill School, there may be occasions when physical intervention is necessary to ensure the safety and wellbeing of pupils and staff. The strategies used to support each pupil are outlined in individual behaviour plans, which are shared with you at the start of the school year. Staff are trained in the CPI Safety Intervention Foundation programme, which provides a range of techniques to support pupils in regulating their behaviour.

In line with Department for Education (DfE) guidance, all schools are now required to inform parents on the same day if a pupil has been involved in a significant incident requiring the use of a high-level physical intervention.

High-level restrictive interventions may be used when a pupil's behaviour presents an immediate risk of harm to themselves, other pupils, or staff. In all schools, such interventions are always:

- a last resort, used only when there is an imminent risk of harm
- a reasonable response, based on an assessment of the pupil's behaviour and intent
- proportionate, ensuring the level of intervention matches the level of risk
- considerate of the pupil's welfare

The school will inform parents in writing on the same day of any incident where a high-level restrictive intervention has been used. This will usually be via email and will provide a brief outline of the incident. Where appropriate, a member of staff may also contact you to discuss the matter in more detail.

I would like to reassure you that our overall approach to behaviour remains unchanged. For further information, please refer to the school's behaviour policy available on our website.

Yours Sincerely,

Adele Harvey

Deputy Headteacher, Behaviour Lead
